INNER CITY CAPITAL CONNECTIONS (ICCC)

IMPACT MATTERS

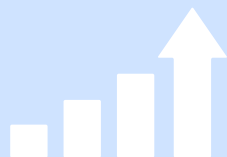

Our alumni make lasting contributions to the small business ecosystem and their communities. This overview is a testament to their strength and showcases their successes through the end of 2019.

2020 has been an agonizing year for our nation, especially for small businesses which are often the backbone of underserved communities. Yet in the face of adversity, ICCC alumni have displayed extraordinary resilience, innovation, generosity, and adaptability. We are extremely proud of their efforts to survive and support each other, create and retain jobs, and provide vital services to their communities.

“My whole mindset was changed. The [ICIC] program is like a mini-MBA. They teach you marketing and negotiation and management and team building. I was not a natural fee negotiator — I had a lot of anxiety. I learned it was all a balancing act, and this was extremely helpful and effective for me.”

“It was a pleasure participating in the ICCC's program. We ended up meeting an investor from The LimeLife Fempire Fund who ended up leading our seed round of investment! Since participating in the program, we've experienced exponential growth. We recently announced a partnership with ADT, the #1 name in security! We're so excited to see what the future holds for other entrepreneurs who participate in the ICCC's program!”

ICCC BOSTON 2019

Since the beginning of the COVID-19 pandemic in early 2020, we have seen a dramatic impact on small business owners as they navigate business closures, furloughs, and more. We conducted the 2020 ICIC Health Crisis Survey to understand and examine how the crisis has affected their businesses, their employees, and their ability to access to capital.

We know that the small business community, particularly those in underserved communities, has been hit the hardest by the pandemic. Now, more than ever, they need access to capital, one-on-one coaching, and capacity-building education, the fundamental components of the ICCC program.

This year in particular, we worked with some of the most vulnerable businesses in our communities, and invited our alumni to participate again as part of our commitment to provide the small business community with the tools and resources to lead, survive, and thrive during these uncertain times.

INITIATIVE FOR A COMPETITIVE INNER CITY (ICIC)

2020 ICCIC IMPACT OVERVIEW

Established in 1994 by Harvard Business School Professor Dr. Michael E. Porter, ICIC is a national nonprofit that drives inclusive economic prosperity in under-resourced communities through innovative research and programs to create jobs, income, and wealth for local residents.

INNER CITY CAPITAL CONNECTIONS (ICCC) PROGRAM

ICCC launched in 2005 to help small- and medium-sized businesses in under-resourced communities build capacity for sustainable long-term growth. Since that time, the program has grown dramatically, and in 2020 served 1,220 small business owners in 17 cohorts across the country.

2020 PROGRAM FOCUS

The ICCIC program pivoted to a fully virtual learning model and adapted its curriculum to help businesses survive, recover, and grow by prioritizing the following:

- Business Recovery Strategies
- Capital Relief Solutions
- Community Building
- One-on-One Coaching
- Networking and Peer-to-Peer Learning

2020 ICIC-WIDE IMPACT REPORT

ICIC has created an organization-wide Impact Report that showcases the impact of ICIC alumni across all four of our Urban Business Initiatives (UBIs). Access the 2020 ICIC Impact Report by visiting reports.icic.org.
